TORRINGTON LAWYER ARRESTED

Sequel to an Attack on Dr. Pratt on the Street by Attorney Thomas J. Wall.

Torrington, Sept. 29. — Attorney Thomas J. Wall was arrested here this morning on a charge of assault as a sequel to his attack on Dr. Elias Pratt, member of the republican state central committee, yesterday afternoon. Attorney Wall will be given a hearing in the borough court tomorrow morning.

The case has grown out of an extreme bitterness between two men which has existed for several years. Attorney Wall has been one of the leaders of a faction in the republican party. The contest in which he has been interested lately is that for registrar of voters. Mr. Wall favored the nomination of W. J. Henderson. The candidate of the republican organization was F. J. Deakin. The affair is alleged to have taken place in front of the Agard block on Main street.

Dr. Pratt and several other political workers were engaged in discussing the contest of registrar of voters yesterday afternoon, when Attorney Wall came along, and joined in the discussion. After the exchange of angry words between Dr. Pratt and Attorney Wall, Dr. Pratt is alleged to have said: "Wall, you are so crooked from the soles of your feet to the top of your head that you cannot lie in bed." Attorney Wall struck the physician a blow on the side of the head and staggered him out into the street.

Dr. Pratt represented Torrington in the legislature at the sessions of 1899 and 1901.

Attorney Wall said this morning that he intended to have Dr. Pratt arrested on a charge of using abusive language.

MINISTER OVERSLEPT.

Rev. C. S. Bullock, Who Impersonated Fulton, Missed His Train.

The Rev. Mr. Bullock of Stratford, came very near on Saturday morning not appearing in the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York, as the impersonator of Fulton, and thereby hangs a tale. In order to make connection with the programme he was to have taken an early train from Stratford. He slept over and if it had not been for the alertness of the hackman from Mr. Wakeley's livery stable, who had been engaged to take the minister from his house to the station, that Hudson-Fulton celebration would have been held up a few hours, at least, pending the arrival of one of the principal actors therein.

The hackman found the pastor fast asleep and had to thump long and hard on the door to awaken him. When he got up the minister found that he had just four minutes to get to the station, five blocks away. He dressed as sparingly as time would allow, putting on a rain coat, a pair of shoes and a hat, and hurried to the station, where he found the celebration was also in a hurry to get to the train that was too, had no time to make a very elaborate toilet.

Double Anniversary Celebration.

At the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. George Hosmer of Springfield, Mass., on Saturday night, the 25th anniversary of their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stoney of Waterbury, was also celebrated. There was a reception in Odd Fellows' hall, beginning at 5 o'clock and lasting through the night. There are 25 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, making the family now consist of 41 members, all of whom were present at the reunion.

Hartford is in Earnest.

The movement which has been started by the board of trade for the erection of a new railroad station in Hartford is not a grand stand play. It is thoroughly earnest and is prompted by a recognized need.

The present structure, first occupied in 1858, is an offense against convenience and against the city. Its arrangements are so complex that a stranger has difficulty in finding his train, and even residents of Hartford often get confused in trying to master the intricacies of the building. Architecturally unattractive, it is also inadequate and ill-contrived. When the structure was put up, the railroad station in Hartford was wholly different from what it is now. The old New York and New England line, with its ups and downs, hadn't been taken over by the New Haven system and was indulging in feeble competition. The Central New England was wholly independent of New Haven and between the big road and the little one no love was lost. There were three railroad stations then, there is one now.

The volume of passenger traffic which flows into and out of Hartford or which changes cars here is immense and constantly growing. Many cities, much smaller, have much better stations than Hartford. Hartford is entitled to a station which would not only minister to the convenience and beauty of the city, but which would give credit to the New Haven railroad. A recognition of the present unsatisfactory facilities and of the importance of Hartford as a railroad center will, we think, induce President Mellen to give an attentive and sympathetic ear when the matter in question is formally submitted to him.—Hartford Times.

An Opinion.

If the men and women who go whizzing about the country in powerful automobiles, late at night, were wise and good, their adventures would not be so disastrous. The fact is that few of them are good and none of them wise. The automobile seems to have originated a new species of insanity among many persons. They go speeding along the roads in the watches of the night when good people are asleep, except belated travelers, and woe to the wayfarer whom they fall upon. They are reckless, lawless, and prepare for his end. There is only one way to deal with these dangerous lunatics. They should be kept off the roads. They are useless, without reason, to look them up. A strict curfew ordinance for joy riders is what we need. They ought not to be allowed on the highways after dark, or midnight at latest.—Portland Oregonian.
